

“... just getting into general activity early and keeping active is going to be one of the biggest pushes rather than waiting until crisis point when they are at stage three... [to refer] to the therapist. It has to come from the beginning, from diagnosis.”